

I oppose the weakening of Indiana's law concerning telephone privacy. Indiana residents have been able to enjoy dinner with our families without unwanted and unsolicited call interruptions. The Consumer Bankers Association is trying to reverse that so that they can interrupt us in our homes whenever it is convenient for them. Please don't allow this law to be weakened and open the door for other groups to jump on the bandwagon. This is one law that is truly enjoyed by so many on a daily basis. Don't take it away. The banks and credit card companies have plenty of other ways to solicit.
